

New Term!

Welcome back after a great summer! No doubt everyone feels well rested and full of Vitamin D after all that sunshine. Now, as we try to get re-aquainted with our winter woollies, we turn our attention to important things, like drama!

We at the EH School are very much looking forward to an exciting new term, with a strong focus this year on getting the best out of everyone, in terms of creative input. We'll be shaking things up to ensure each and every student shares their ideas and opinions, but as always, we remain sensitive and conscious of building up confidences, so things will still be fun! Who knows what we'll come up with? But either way, parents and guardians will get to see the results of our endeavours before Halloween. Each class will also perform a play towards the end of term - dates within the next couple of weeks.

A note on snacks: parents please remember they are just that - a small snack, not a round of sandwiches and a treat! As the class content can be high energy, we have a short five minute break, during which the students can eat something small and get a drink of water. Please please - no treats - it is simply not fair on the other children. I suggest a piece of fruit or cheese and I implore you not to give the younger children anything that makes crumbs - including popcorn! Nothing other than water to drink. As always, please inform us if a child has a food allergy.

Students should bring their own folder to class every week and keep any handouts clean. Parents of younger students, please check the folders every week for line learning!

Finally, I can feel in my bones that this is the year I get better at updating my website! It is a very useful tool for parents and keeping you informed and I do usually have the blog up to speed. We also have a facebook page, maybe you might like and share us! I really welcome your feedback on all this.

Looking forward to seeing you all next week!
